HERE'S A NEW ONF -

"While in England during the last War, I collected quite a few coins as well as experiences. Here is one of the latter that may be of interest: Being one of the first groups of Americans to land, I was on English Rations in an R.A.F. Camp. The English Penny about the size of our Half Dollar. made a swell coin to pitch to the line and our boys were having themselves quite a time at this old newsboy's pastime. But after a day of this fun, an official Army bulletin was posted: 'There will be no more pitching of English coins to the line. It is considered disrespectful to throw the King's head in the dirt. COME TO BOSTON A.N.A. CONVENTION, AUGUST 21-25

Collectors of private gold pieces will be interested to learn that the inscription "Aug.1,1834," on one variety of the five-dollar piece issued by Christopher Bechtler at Rutherford, N.C. has a special significance. For a time it was probable that this date would appear on all the regular United States half eagles struck at the mint after the weight and value of the denomination had been changed. When Alexander Hamilton formulated the gold coinage, the first of which was issued in 1795, gold was valued at the ratio of 15 to 1 of silver. As the volume of silver gradually increased this ratio changed until at last the ratio was something like 152 and 16 to 1. In consequence gold coins went to a premium, and the half eagles and eagles were quoted at, approximately $5.25 and $10.50. They were usually engaged before they left the mint, and were sent abroad, remelted and naturally the pieces of the period are now very scarce and rare.

The law reducing the weight and value was passed in 1834, and coinage under the new plan was expected to commence on Aug. 1, 1834. Coinage of pieces under the old plan had been in progress during the year, and in order to distinguish between the two different styles of coins, the Secretary of the Treasury recommended to the Director of the Mint that the gold coins of the reduced weight bear the date of issue-i.e., "Aug.1,1834" However, this was not adopted, but a new design was produced, with the easily distinguishable difference of the omission of the motto. Mr. Bechtler adopted the Secretary's recommendation on his gold pieces. But this fact had no real significance for he struck very few, if any, gold pieces that possessed full stamped value, much less having a value in excess of face.

Henry VIII of England, during the Reformation begun by Luther, was at first a strict Catholic and very zealous in behalf of the Pope. In 1521 the King wrote a book defending the Seven Sacraments of the church against Luther's attacks and sent a copy to Leo X. His Holiness, glad to receive aid so illustrous, conferred on him the title of "Defender of The Faith." The letters F. D., for Fidei Defensor, have been continued on English coins.

Questions Answers

Q. Please give me the origin of the dollar mark.

A. There are several theories regarding the origin of this mark. "You pay your money and take your choice." 1. That it is a modification of the figure 8, the dollar originally a piece of an eight and designated by an 8-8. 2. That it is a combinaof H-S., the mark of the Roman Mint. 3. That it was taken from the Spanish dollar. On the reverse of this piece is a representation of the Pillars of Hercules, and around each pillar a scroll with the inscription "Plus Ultra." This device in the course of time degenerating into the dollar sign. 4. That it is a combination of U. S. the initials of the United States. 5. That it is a combination of P and S from the Spanish Peso duro which means "hard dollar." In Spanish accounts peso is controlled by writing the S over the P, and placing it over the

Q. What is the story behind the Lima on coins of George II.?

A. The word Lima, which occurs on certain coins of George II of England, indicates that these pieces were coined in great part from silver captured by the two British privateers, "Duke," and "Prince Frederick." This capture occurred on July 10, 1745, when the above mentioned vessels took two ships belonging to St. Malo, which were returning from Lima.
